Close D.C. General? Hear Pro, Con Apr. 23

At 7:30 p.m. Monday, Apr. 23, you can hear both sides of the Mayor's plan to change the public health care system in D.C.

What services will still be at D.C. General? Are there enough other hospital beds to give care without D.C. General?

The Southwest Neighborhood Assembly public forum will be at St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, 222 M St. S.W. ■

Workshop Sees More Housing From P St. To The Anacostia

The Apr. 7 community workshop on the future of Southwest seemed to agree that the heavy industrial uses of Buzzards Point from P St. to the Anacostia River must eventually go. Many blocks of housing all the way to the river and commercial use on Potomac Ave. were favored.

Brainstorming during the day brought out suggestions for activity on both sides of the Washington Channel and identified problems and opportunities at Waterside Mall.

Held at Southeastern University at 5th and I St. S.W., this was one of five community workshops being conducted at different locations along the Anacostia River that day by the D. C. Office of Planning. Professional planners with experience in developing urban rivers led the workshops with the goal of an overall plan by next March.

The next public gathering to consider alternatives will be from 9 am to 2 pm Saturday, May 19, at the National Building Museum, 401 F St. NW. ■

Jeff History Club At HUD

Members of Jefferson Jr. High's History Club who performed at the HUD Building

The 9th grade History Club at Jefferson Jr. High appeared at the headquarters building of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development near the school as part of a salute to African American History.

In a newsletter of HUD's Toastmasters, their appearance was described in these words:

"These creative and talented youth performed a series of dramatic skits taken from historical events in American History that ultimately impacted the state of Africans in America.

"Featured were history-changing personalities such as Rosa Parks, Jackie Robinson, and Dr. Martin L. King, Jr.

"In addition the young people created huge colorful posters illustrating various African American movers and shakers in American History."

The group is sponsored by Mr. Charles W. Smith. ■

Anacostia /S.W. Waterfronts Are Planning Focus

More than a dozen public workshops over ten months are laying the groundwork for "a comprehensive plan for the Anacostia waterfront communities." This would include, according to a D.C. Dept. of Planning release a year ago, "Southwest:... the City will develop a new vision to fully realize the potential of the Southwest waterfront and Waterside Mall located only seven blocks from the National Mall."

Mayor Anthony Williams summarized the goal and process at a meeting in Van Ness School at M and 5th St. S.E. on March 13. This was followed by five workshops on April 7 in five communities along the waterfront: Southwest, at Bowen Elementary School; Southeast at Van Ness; Poplar Point, at Savoy Elementary School in Anacostia; RFK [Stadium area] at Minor Elementary School in NE; and Anacostia & Kenilworth Parks, at River Terrace School in NE.

All areas will be represented at a "presentation" on Saturday, May 19, from 9am to 2 pm, at the National Building Museum, 401 F St. N.W.

The five area meetings will be reconvened

Mayor Anthony Williams addressed the March 13 planning meeting at Van Ness School. On the stage behind him are Congresswoman Connie Morella and Congresswoman Eleanor Holmes Norton.

at the same five places on Saturday, July 14, from 9 am to 2 pm to consider alternatives. All areas will convene together on Saturday, Sep. 21, at a location to be determined.

Draft plans will be considered at area meetings on Nov. 3, with a final presentation on January 19, 2002.

Artist For 12th St. Underpass

P. Byron Peck was recently selected as the artist for the Southwest Gateway Public Art Project located at the underpass at 12th St. and Maine Ave. S.W. The announcement says:

"The planned artwork is a wall-mounted mosaic and painted mural on the interior and entrance walls of the tunnel. In the east and west tunnels, panels of painted scenes of S.W. D.C., framed by large colored tiles are interspersed with serpentine mosaics of colorful abstract shapes and images of local plants and wildlife. The ceiling in the west tunnel will give the illusion of openings to a bright blue, cloud filled sky." ■

Redrawing Ward Boundaries

New census figures mean new boundary lines for Wards and ANC districts. The Council will take up a bill on ward boundaries June 5.

Before that there have been public hearings on ward boundaries, with At-Large Council member Phil Mendelson, chair of the redistricting subcommittee, taking the lead. He introduced Bill 14-137, a "dummy redistrict bill" to start the process.

ANC boundaries come later, with hearings already planned for Nov. 8 and Nov. 10. ■

M.I.T. Students Draw Plans For S.W. Future

Suggestions for how S.W. might look in the next twenty-five years were drawn up as a class project by a group of architecture and city planning graduate students at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. After visiting S.W. and talking to many local people last August, the students returned to M.I.T. and listed problems they saw in S.W. and applied modern city planning techniques to suggesting changes.

THE BUZZARDS POINT area ending on the Anacostia River between So. Capitol St. and 2nd St. S.W. could have housing instead of the rock crushing and other industrial uses at present. Their proposal includes:

- Encourage luxury apartments at the waterfront, mid-rise on higher traffic roads and row houses along local neighborhood routes.
- Promote higher densities of housing along the waterfront.

- density bonuses granted in exchange for affordable housing and public amenity provision.

THE WATERFRONT area could be opened more to public use if buildings were located east of Maine Ave. and a staircase built to Banneker Park and Le'Enfant Plaza.

THE CENTRAL RESIDENTIAL area east of Delaware Ave. could have more town homes and will need a new high school. Delaware Ave. itself could become a parkway leading to the Capitol Building.

The students were thanked and congratulated for highlighting possibilities.

Neighborhood input into planning here and in other neighborhoods along the Anacostia River began in earnest with a series of five neighborhood meetings on Saturday, April 7, arranged by the D.C. Dept. of Planning. (See story on p. 1) ■

Amidon Yard Sale Sat. May 5

From 8 am to 4 pm Saturday, May 5, the 4th St. sidewalk from I (Eye) St. S.W. to G St. S.W. next to Amidon Elementary School will be lined with yard sale tables to raise funds for the school - and of course, profit for the table owners who are selling their own treasures.

You pay $25 for a space along the sidewalk. Make your check payable to Amidon Elementary School and send it to Monica Evans, 431 G St. S.W., Washington, D.C. 20024. If there are any spaces left on May 5 you will have to pay $30.

Co-sponsors of the yard sale are the owners of town houses on G St. (THMIV), who used the funds from last year's yard sale to buy the new sign next to Amidon. ■

Caleb Shelton poses next to the sign purchased from the proceeds of last year's Amidon/THM-IV yard sale.

All Four Club #4 Hoop Teams In Playoffs

By Alvin Hudgens

Basketball was decidedly a winning sport at Club #4 this year, but only two of the four teams in the playoffs for their age group were able to survive March Madness and win city championships. (See separate story on the two with championship trophies).

The 12 and under boys basketball team entered the playoff with a 12-0 record, showing great dominancy all season with great back court play from George Washington. But this team was upset in the championship game by a solid Club #2 team.

Several players played outstanding basketball in the championship game and during the season. Antonio Logan El' and Radford Ferguson deserve special mention.

The 14 and under team, after entering the playoffs 8-3 and showing great promise late in the season, was eliminated by Club #11 from Anacostia, 55-50.

A very young group with great forwards Warren Gamble (20 pts, 10 rebounds) and Delonte Mack averaging 12 points a game, surprised Club #11 by leading by 1 with 6 minutes remaining. But a strong rally in the last three minutes proved to be the difference for #11.

A job well done by all four teams, guys. ■

Club #4 Wins Two City Championships

By Alvin Hudgens

The 10 and under and 16 and under boys basketball teams of Metropolitan Police Boys & Girls Club #4, operating out of Bowen School gym, are both 2001 Washington D.C. champions in league play with other clubs.

The 10 and under team defeated Club #11 from Anacostia by a score of 42 to 35. This team had an undefeated season, 13-0.

Strong guard play led to several steals and easy points by the rookie back court team of Audley Feemster and Tyrone Ford. Sharp shooting forwards Darryl Gillis and Hasante Carson rounded out the starters.

Rico Hines led the team, averaging 18 points and 14 rebounds a game. ■

16 and Under Win 62-57

With only 1.25 remaining, Terrance Carson was on the line for two free throws and hit both, insuring victory over Club #6 which is located at Coolidge High School.

This game provided 34 minutes of excitement and gave the 16 and under team city-wide championships two years in a row.

Terrell Jackson and Antonio Knight both had solid games, with Gregory Randolph providing strong defense.

"This team showed great patience all season and led with our trapping defense," said Head Coach Tony Parry. ■

Terrance Carson's free throw shooting helped win the championship game.

Gregory Randolph was strong on defense.
